BASIC PREP

Ready to use. Add to taste.

SUGGESTED USES

- Mix with fish sauce, sugar and lime for a marinade for chicken, carrots, cabbage or green papaya
- Sprinkle onto sweet potatoes
- Incorporate into curries and stir-fries for authentic Thai flavor

RECIPE

Jaew Dipping Sauce

- 1 tablespoon long grain rice
- 1/3 cup fish sauce
- 1/4 cup lime juice
- 2 teaspoons brown sugar
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced shallots
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped cilantro
- 2 teaspoons Red Thai Chile Powder
- 1/2 teaspoon Galangal Powder

Set a small skillet over medium-low heat. Add rice to skillet and stir and shake every few seconds until grains are evenly toasted to a light golden brown. Remove skillet from heat, and let rice cool completely. Transfer to a very clean spice grinder, and grind to a very fine powder. Reserve.

Combine fish sauce and lime juice in a bowl. Add brown sugar, and whisk to dissolve. Add remaining ingredients, including reserved toasted rice powder, and whisk to blend.

Makes about 1 cup

Jaew is a common condiment in Thailand, where it is traditionally served with grilled and roasted meats, such as pork or chicken. The flavor reflects the complexity of Thai cuisine, with a balance of salty, sweet, sour and hot, with Red Thai Chile Powder providing the requisite heat. The toasted rice powder, while it requires an additional step, provides a defining "toasty" flavor to the sauce that is authentically Thai.
